Greenfield Hill Country Club's Annual Exhibition Opens Auspiciously

At 10 o'clock this morning, with the band playing, flags fluttering and hundreds of people anxiously waiting, full of anticipation, the Ninth Annual Greenfield Country Club Agricultural Fair opened for the three days exhibition of live stock, fruits, vegetables, antiques and handiwork of every description at the grounds of the club on Greenfield Hill. Nothing but satisfaction was expressed on all sides with the arrangements and general layout of the exhibition. In the rear of the club house were clustered the tents containing the poultry, pigeon, pet stock, vegetable, fruit exhibits while in the barn at the rear of the club house will be the exhibit of dogs. Some distance from the tents and barn the cattle were stationed. In the extreme rear is the track and grand stand. In the club house are the Ladles' Industrial department, the fine arts department, the antique department, children's exhibits, bread, cake, canned fruit, pickles, etc., departments. The tea room, in charge of Mrs. W. E. Hulse, of Bridgeport, is also in the club house. From to-day's prospects this year's fair will be as successful as any ever held by the club. The sheep and swine exhibits are the largest on record.

The exhibition and judging of cattle, poultry, fruit, vegetables, bread, cake, pastry, fine arts, children's exhibits, pet stock, blooded stock, sheep and swine was held to-day. The dog and horse show will begin to-morrow. The horses will be judged at 11 a. m. and the judging of the dogs will begin promptly at 2 p. m. The dogs will be exhibited Thursday also. Athletic sports will be held Thursday afternoon.

To-day was cattle day and about 100 but satisfaction was expressed on all Hanlon, Meriden.

The retiring secretary, John J. Kinney, was presented with a diamond fob. President Quinn received a purse of $250, a gold watch, and a gavel made from wood of the bar in Abe Lincoln's tavern. It was decided to hold the next annual convention in Waterbury, a date to be fixed later. The president and treasurer were chosen delegates to the national convention.

The association passed resolutions

The association passed resolutions endorsing the recommendations in the president's address in regard to dives and disreputable places, and declared war upon all such. It also passed a resolution favoring temperance. In one of the resolutions, it was pointed out that speedy death of dives would result if the brewers failed to supply them with goods. them with goods.

Texas politicians in discussing the speech, declare, there is a strong possibility that Bryan's winter home near Mercedes and only a short distance from the ranch of Charles P. Taft, may become his permanent residence and that the challenge to Bailey is strong enough to imply that Bryan may enter into a compact against him. It is even hinted that Bryan may become a candidate for rihe Senate from Texas.

and the third to the tariff.

That a platform is binding upon one who runs upon it, is axiomatic, Bryan declared.

"I believe a candidate has a right to separate his platform if he believes the platform is wrong, but this repudiation must be made before election so that his declaration on the subject may constitute a new platform that will be binding upon him."

This part of the speech is considered as referring to Balley, who voted for a duty on hides, although he supported the Democratic platform in his pre-election speeches. This platform, throughout Texas, is considered a pledge for free raw materials.

"Owing to the fact that a number of, Senators and Representatives refuse to be bound by national platforms on some propositions, I think every congressional district should adopt a platform containing a plank declaring the platform binding," Bryan continued.

I will submit a plank making some definite statement of a position on the tariff."

The plank submitted declared for free wool, lumber, wood pulp, paper, hides, leather, harness, boots and shoes, and oil and its products, coal binding twine, and cotton bagging.

The rest of the speech was an argument in favor of the tariff principle as laid down in the plank submitted.

was renewed with more vigor than ever before but with little prospect of unraveling the cruel mystery.

This afternoon Chief of Police Brophy announced that the police were as far away as ever from a solution of the mystery.

There are a number of theories as to the motive for the brutal crime. The most tenable is that the children were murdered by members of the Black Hand, but whether for revenge or blackmail, is hard to determine.

The father of the Infusino children is fairly well-to-do, but he has denied that he has received blackmailink letters from the Black Hand.
